

Reports of Meetings

THE EASTERN COMPONENT GROUP OF THE EDWARD H. ANGLE
SOCIETY OF ORTHODONTIA

A regular meeting of the Eastern Component of the Edward H. Angle Society of Orthodontia was held Sunday and Monday, January 21 and 22, 1934, at Dr. Strang's Post Graduate School of Orthodontia, Bridgeport, Connecticut.

The members and guests present were:

Dr. Walter Dunlap	Dr. Morse Newcomb
Dr. Helen A. Gough	Dr. Robert H. W. Strang
Dr. Albert Johnson	Dr. Edward R. Strayer
Dr. Glenn F. Whitson

The following program was presented January 21st:

The Morning Session:

Lecture on Anatomy—The Sphenoid Bone.

DR. EDWARD R. STRAYER

Quiz on the Palatine and Ethmoidal Bones.

Conducted by DR. WALTER M. DUNLAP

The afternoon session was devoted to technic work. This consisted of the study and application of a new technic for archwire formation based upon the suggestions of the Southern California Study Group, for the Improvement of the Form of the Ideal Typal Archwires.

The Evening Session:

Reports of the Ninth Annual Meeting from the following members:

DR. ALBERT JOHNSON

DR. CHESTER HUMMEL

DR. LEON BRYANT

This was followed by Reports of Cases.

Dr. Johnson showed slides of cases he had treated with the new edge-wise mechanism. The results were most gratifying.

On Monday, January 22nd, the following was the program:—

Physics and Mechanics as Applied to Orthodontia

DR. HELEN A. GOUGH

Case Report

DR. ROBERT H. W. STRANG

Failures in Treatment

DR. WALTER DUNLAP

At the business meeting Dr. Strang reported that our proposed Constitution and By-Laws had been accepted by the Central Body and, therefore, we were functioning under said Constitution and By-Laws.

Plans were started for our contribution to the 1935 Meeting of the Central Body.

The afternoon session was devoted to technical procedures.

Each member attending these meetings goes away feeling the friendly good fellowship of the Group and carries with him a new enthusiasm and stimulation to strive toward that ever elusive "Ideal" in his thinking and working.

HELEN A. GOUGH, D.D.S.—Secretary
